

ABOUT THE JOURNAL

This online journal serves as a platform for researchers, academicians, professionals, practitioners, and students to share and exchange knowledge through genuine and legitimate research in the fields of engineering, management, and applied science. Its primary objective is to promote high-quality empirical research analysis and critical perspectives that contribute to authentic and practical knowledge in engineering and management education, as well as applied science.

AIMS THE JOURNAL

The journal aims to provide broader exposure to research scholars in their respective fields, allowing them to showcase their work to a global audience. By facilitating the contribution and synergy of research articles, this online journal benefits the worldwide research community and promotes its growth.

SCOPE OF THE JOURNAL

This online journal predominantly provides researchers and practitioners in engineering, management, and applied science with a valuable platform to disseminate their research, while promoting authentic and realistic knowledge in these fields. It encourages the exchange of ideas and the advancement of the research community on a global scale.
